OSWALD — A KNOWN CRIMINAL April '67

The statement of Chief Justice Earl Warren may be the most unfortunate statement of all-- when he said that we may not know the ~~truth~~ facts about the assassination of John F. Kennedy in ~~our~~ a "lifetime." He may have set a flame in the public's mind and heart that will burn so continuously and with such fury that even the vaults of the archives will be consumed. May God forbid such havoc and devastation in the hearts and minds of men, and may He lead us to the truth by a shorter and more creditable route than ~~through~~ the flames of deceit, treachery and purgatory.

Since Robert F. Kennedy has made a mockery out of the Warren Commission and its Report by commissioning his own commissioner to write the Historical Record of the assassination-- "The Death of a President"-- certainly the public is, by him, relieved of all responsibility for, or to, the truth of the official documentation and report. Robert Kennedy's responsibility as the Attorney General of the nation was for justice. Where he could have been a witness before the Commission had he desired, or had he had more to tell the American public, he nowbecomes a witness against himself through his commissioning of the Manchester Record. Robert Kennedy, the Senator, has betrayed and exposed Robert Kennedy, the Attorney General. He has exposed himself, ~~and joined the attempt to expose, the Warren Commission, Report and the President, to whom he was responsible.~~ its

If Robert Kennedy does not, and he has proved that he doesn't, recognize the Warren Report as the truthful last word, is Manchester to be the last word and the word to fill the Warren gap between today and our "lifetime"?

Why then the 27 volumes and the original hundred rushed to the U.S. embassy in Moscow to get earliest distribution within the Soviet Government? Was Robert F. Kennedy, the Attorney General, equally and satisfacotirly appeased at that time with the ~~fact~~ intent to appease his friends behind the Iron Curtain? Has he now extended his appeasement tactics through Manchester to gain further political support from the Soviet to ally their entire plans for the future with Robert Kennedy? What a nice little brother he is-- leaving all justice for Jack unheralded and unsung, for his own political gain--the mighty hand of Soviet influence, the blackmail, atomic threats and bullets killing our men-- ~~as~~ as though that was not enough without his blood.

Twenty-seven volumes have exposed enough for it to be seen that Bobby's road is not an easy one. In fact, it is very, very dangerous, and to our knowledge and belief it is a more dangerous one than that of his brother, who said that the nation was in "Dire Peril" ... "and might not survive his term in office"--recognizing that he himself was in the Direst Peril--and did not survive. It really makes one wonder if political support of Bobby, in any way, is really in his best interest or for his good health--and if not in his best interest, how could it possibly become in the best interest of the nation?

Twenty-six volumes of testimony and documentation and the twenty-seventh, the Warren Commission Report, are not expected at a price of $80 to be in the hands of any great number of people. However, they are well distributed throughout the media system. There would be only one excuse for the failure of so many people to know that the Warren Commission found that the President's assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, was a criminal-murderer before he assassinated the President. The President was assassinated by a known criminal. The President was assassinated by the man who attempted to assassinate a former Major General of the United States Armed Forces, according to the Warren Commission conclusion and Report-- a conclusion without equivocation or question. The one excuse for any public surprise is squarely at the door of the nation's press and communications system.

Your ECONOMIC COUNCIL LETTER, with this introduction, and now through recent contact directly into the home, 4011 Turtle Creek, Dallas, Texas--the home in which the assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, attempted to kill the former General, Edwin A. Walker, presents to you what is in effect the exclusive story. Exclusive, because it has not been told effectively--is so vaguely known, if at all, and because it is the release from between the two bullet holes in the walls--one outer and one inner wall--at the 4011 Turtle Creek residence.

Should we recall that John F. Kennedy was the third president of the United States to be assassinated but the first president to be assassinated by a known criminal--in this case the Lee Harvey Oswald who was found by the WC Report to have been the one who attempted to assassinate Edwin A. Walker? This attempt was at 9 PM the night of April 10, 1963, just over seven months prior to the Kennedy visit to Dallas. The victim of this attempt was the former General with over thirty years of military service--a 1931 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy, West Point.

Without the extenuating circumstances of a political campaign or the surroundings and environment of pro-and-con in a public gathering, but seated quietly alone and in his private home--are facts which might make us all a little more apprehensive about our security and the WC Report.

Not only the circumstances but the special training, activities and capability of this particular General are highly significant as to our freedoms. He is the one man who has resigned from the Military with over 30 years of service, who can and has tested the right of freedom and citizenship as inalienable rights, beyond the reach and fancies of public men.

Few, from the press' fragmentary accounts, would recognize the former General Walker as the same man who in Germany initiated the offensive counterattack in Psychological Warfare through a program widely known throughout the Armed Services as "Pro-Blue"-- Pro-Blue as opposed to Pro-Red. For those who have followed his career more closely than press sources will reveal, they know Mr. Walker as the only General Officer with over 30 years of service to have ever resigned from the Military service--implemented and confirmed by an Honorable Discharge, after having received official Defense Department orders to an assignment reflecting highest credit to his military record and career.

The following year after his resignation in 1961, the year in which President John F. Kennedy was quoted as saying that he would review the Walker case, ~~same~~ Was the year of 1962 in which Edwin A. Walker ran for governor in the State of Texas with 140,000 votes, followed by imprisonment without a hearing, counsel or the opportunity to make bond, by manipulations fight out of the U.S. Attorney General's office-- Robert F. Kennedy. The following year, April 1963, Lee Harvey Oswald, according to the Report, barely missed him with a highpowered rifle. This was after Walker had filed suits against Associated Press and various newspapers for millions of dollars.

EXCLUSIVE from between the two bullet holes comes this report from Dallas, Texas. At 9 PM a shot rang out of the darkness with the shock effect of a giant fire cracker going off one inch above the head. There was fine debris of window glass and wood all over the desk, the right arm on the desk was bleeding in two places from bullet casing fragments, a full head of hair was full of debris. Not one, but two men were seen by an eye witness hurriedly leaving the alley about 40 yards behind the Walker house. ~~in two separate cars.~~ Upon hearing the shot and not knowing its purpose or intent--a move of only five steps brought two men into full view not more than 30 steps away from the eye witness. On being asked what they were doing, there was no reply and the two men moved hurriedly to two separate cars that were in full view, ~~one quickly driven away.~~ Herein lies one of the most fundamental falsities of the WC Report, since it found that Oswald was a very "Lonely Loner."

The accuracy of the shot was immediately confirmed by Dallas City Police Investigators, who were there within 15 minutes; and with Walker seated writing at his desk, they stated and recorded the incident as attempted assassination.

With tweezers, probing for removal of the bullet fragments in his arm, Walker asked, "Why do you say it is attempted assassination?"

The police investigator's answer was, "He could not have missed you--he was trying to kill you." By the line-up of the two holes as the bullet came through the closed window, directed at Walker, it passed exactly over his head, not more than a single inch above, then passed through the wall beside his desk and into the next room where it fell with plaster from the wall to the floor to be picked up in the adjoining room by the police.

The natural and usual question asked is, "What has been done about it?" The best answer from 4011 Turtle Creek is, "Nothing." The Attorney General did not have to be told, as he was, not to make a martyr of Edwin A. Walker.

He must be given credit--after holding Walker for six days in a prison cell, stripped of his clothing and allowed no mail, messages, use of a telephone or to see anyone but a lawyer or his 77-year-old mother--for not daring to martyr Walker with a communist, trained in Minsk and assisted by the State Department.

No one at 4011 or practically anyone else in Dallas ever heard of Lee Harvey Oswald until seven months had passed and the President of the U.S. was assassinated only three miles from Walker's doorstep. Since then there is probably much more "reason" why the answer is "nothing" regarding what was done in the attempted assassination.

Denials, which have been few, that Federal and Dallas law enforcement agents were blocked by Washington orders not to take action against Lee Harvey Oswald, the known and most likely suspect, in his attempt to kill Walker—are increasingly more questionable.

In fact at 4011, Walker says that witnesses in Dallas are ample and adequate to establish that Oswald was picked up by the law enforcement agency between 9 PM and 12 midnight, April 10, 1963, after the incident. He was released. Michael Paine testified that he brought the Oswalds to his house the night of April 10th for dinner. The pickup was withheld from the public; so Oswald's name was never heard of, except by his own associates and friends, of which there were many and some shockingly influential, until he was apprehended on Nov. 22, 1963.
